

Overview

Cristina Dalla Torre has been working as junior researcher in the Mountain Sociology and Rural Economy Research Focus Area at the Institute for Regional Development since the beginning of 2017. She holds a Master of Arts degree in Economics and Policy of the Environment, Culture and Territory of the University of Torino (March 2016). Her interest for socio-economic and environmental aspects of mountain and rural development is reflected in her main research activities, which include social innovation in marginalized rural areas, labor integration of migrants in mountain territories and circular economy, with a specific focus on applied research methods and participatory processes. Before joining Eurac Research, Cristina Dalla Torre concluded a period of 6-months-internship at the International Commission for the Protection of Alps (CIPRA International). Cristina is fluent in English, German and French, besides Italian as her mother tongue, and is passionate about anthropology and wild animals' behavior.

Recent Publications

Weiss, M.L., Dalla Torre C., Streifeneder, T. (2017). La cultura dell'accoglienza nelle Alpi: le prospettive del progetto PlurAlps. Ripensare le migrazioni per uno spazio alpino pluralistico. In “Per forza o per scelta. L'immigrazione straniera nelle Alpi e negli Appennini”, Membretti, A., Kofler, I., Viazzo, P. (a cura di).

Recent Projects

Horizon 2020 SIMRA, Social Innovation in Marginalized Rural Areas

Alpine Space PlurAlps, Enhancing capabilities for a pluralistic Alpine Space

Study on case of overload and residual risk related to natural hazard in the Alpine space, Bavarian Ministry of Environment

Memberships

CIPRA, In Medias Res Trento